Ohio State Journal,

For the year 1865. THE times in which we now live are teening with events of the most momentous importance, the ever-changing phase of which comes home with deep and abiding interest to every citizen, making a good and reliable family assessed as the considering and favor of an intelligent public, the Onio State Journal is no more experiment, but an established fact—an institution—identified with the resources, power and progress of our State. Grateful for that confidence, and encouraged by increasing evidence, of the power and progress of our State. Grateful for that con-nidence, and encouraged by increasing evidences of that favor it is the determination of the publishers to main-tain its character of a First Class Newspaper, and tanke it a welcome visitor to every family and fireside. To this end they will spare no pains to make the State Journal a faithful compendium of the news of the day: a repository of current literature; a reliable reporter of the markets; a staunch and fearless defender of Republican principle; and chronicler of Legislative proceedings, both National and State; and containing such a summary of Social, Political, Commercial and Miscellaneous vernicas to accompany Funerals, furnishing COFFINS, &c., in my line. COFFINS always on hand, or made to order im-National and State; and containing such a summary of Social, Political, Commercial and Miscellaneous events as shall make the paper attractive and useful to its numerous readers. Pains will be taken to procure for the State Journal the latest intelligence by mail and telegraph, and supply its columns with choice literary selections, and supply its columns with choice literary selections, and Fisk's Patent Metallic Burial Cases, appropriate editorial commentaries as occasion shall arise. The cause of Popular Education, and the handical state of husbandry, will also receive their proper shars of attention. The progress and events of the war for the preservation of the integrity of the Government will be chronicled with faithful asiduity, until that war shall have been brought to a successful termination.

The Ohio State Journal will continue to give, as it has heretofore given, to the National and State Administrations a cordinal and sincere support, in all efforts for suppression of rebellion and the promotion of the general welfare. In doing this, it will not assume to relieve of ficial position of its proper responsibility, nor yield to place or position, a service and unquestioning adulation. Holding the fundamental doctrine that power belongs to the people, and that official position is but a temporary trust held only for their benefit, we claim the right to scrutenize with candor, the acts of such trustees, in whatever department of the public service. In the exercise of that right it skall be our care that our liberty do not degenerate into licenciousness. To be useful to its readers a newspaper should be independent of official haror; holding itself ready to enlighten and give proper direction to public sentiment, rather than its mere passive echo.

weeks I have just returned from a visit to the State of Maryland, my own native State. I left Maryland about twenty-six years ago, left it a slave. I had the ineffable pleasure of returning to it s free man. [Cheers.] I left that State a slave State, cursed by the dark presence of a system mob violence—a system of barbarism—but l will not characterize it further. I returned there since the use of it I have weighed on an average one hundred and fifty-five.
